

JANET B. CHIANG GRANTS/Application Requirements

Undergraduate and graduate students at Duke University are eligible for these awards. The primary purpose of this fund is to provide grants for student projects with the goal of furthering Asian-American understanding (qualifying projects would include the development and teaching of house courses, travel to educational conferences, stipends for independent research for publication development, etc.) and for need-based grants for study in Asia.

Special consideration will be given to projects connected with Asian-American relations, Asian-American cultural or legal issues and to women's issues, but any project designed to meet a need and which encourages student leadership initiative will be considered. Special consideration will also be given to Asian-Americans who apply for grants to study in Asia, but all students with a demonstrated interest in the relation of Asian and American cultures are encouraged to apply for these grants. The grants must be used by June 30, 2010.

To apply, please submit the following material (in plain envelope, no staples):

- 1) this completed application cover sheet
- 2) a description (2-page limit) of the project
- 3) a budget sheet of the project
- 4) a short (1-2 page) essay describing your involvement with Asian, Asian-American, and/or Women's studies
- 5) a listing of other groups on campus to which you have applied for and/or received funding (e.g., Center for International Studies)
